Akanksha

Akshar will be the 3rd edition of IIT Jodhpur's annual literary and art festival (previously-Aaftaab), celebrating creativity, culture, and imagination. This festival serves as a platform to invite distinguished poets, authors, writers, and artists to recognize and honor their varied talents. It also offers students from our institute and beyond the chance to exhibit and nurture their abilities within this vibrant artistic and literary community. This event allows stories, poems, paintings, and performances to transcend boundaries, enabling us to discover new perspectives, emotions, and ideas. As the American author and poet Maya Angelou famously said, "You can't use up creativity. The more you use, the more you have." Whether you are here to present your work or simply to experience the beauty of literature and art, we hope this festival inspires, challenges, and enriches you with fresh ideas and emotions.
